EGOS and Organization Studies Workshop in Kyoto 2019

December 13–15, 2019
Kyoto University
Clock Tower Centennial Hall, Kyoto, Japan

Call for Papers

We invite paper submissions for the EGOS and Organization Studies Workshop to be held on December 13–15, 2019 at Kyoto University, Japan. This is an inaugural workshop organized by the European Group for Organizational Studies (EGOS) and its journal Organization Studies. With this new workshop we seek to bridge communities of researchers across geographical, cultural and disciplinary distances. Any topic in and around organization studies are welcomed and particularly, those who target the journal Organization Studies should find this workshop as an invaluable opportunity to craft their papers in dialogue with experienced scholars, editors and reviewers (see the journal's aims and scope at: https://us.sagepub.com/en-us/nam/journal/organization-studies#description). Furthermore, resonant with the city of Kyoto, we especially encourage papers on craft, design, creativity, entrepreneurship and writing among other topics.

The Paper Development Workshop and the Doctoral Consortium will be held on Friday afternoon, December 13, and then paper sessions and keynotes on December 14 and 15. Throughout the workshop several experienced editors and reviewers from Organization Studies (as well as other journals) will be present and actively taking part in supporting the process of paper development.

Keynotes:

Carl Rhodes, Professor of Organization Studies and Deputy Dean at UTS Business School, Australia
Mollie Painter, Professor at Nottingham Business School, UK
Robert Chia, Research Professor of Management at Adam Smith Business School, University of Glasgow, UK
